The Old Lady is baking in her kitchen.

I am so looking forward to eating this Gingerbread Man that I am baking. Umm it smells delicious! Ah there goes the timer, now let's get it out the oven and let it cool down.

She gets the Gingerbread Man out the oven and leaves it out to cool.

Phew! It was hot, hot, hot in that oven! What's that yummy biscuit aroma? Oh it's me!!

That's right you do smell wonderful and I'm dunking you in my tea!

She turns to find her tea. and as she turns her back he jumps up and starts running away.

Oh no, I'm not getting soggy legs and bottom,. thank you very much! I'm outta here..

Hey come back here. That's just taking the biscuit, that is! Stop! Stop!

Well, run run as fast as you can! You can't catch me, I'm the Gingerbread Man!

He then keeps running and the old lady chases after him. After a while he comes across a cow.

Mool Hello Mr Gingerbread Man. Where have you come from? You look good enough to eat so if you can just stop running for a bit and come over, I rather fancy a bit of your arm.

But the Gingerbread Man keeps running past the cow and calls back to her.

Oh no you won't Cow! Chew on something else.
Run run as fast as you can! You can't catch me, I'm the Gingerbread Man!

The cow joins the old lady running after him. A little later he nearly bumps into a horse.

Neigh! Now this is not something you see everyday - a Gingerbread Man running down the lane. Can you just stop here as I want to eat you all up?

I don't think so horse. Run run as fast as you can! You can't catch me, I'm the Gingerbread Man!

The horse joins the chase with the cow, and old lady chasing after him. Eventually the Gingerbread Man comes to a river.

Oh crumbs! I can't cross this river and they will all be here soon and most likely going to gobble me all up. What am I going to do?

A fox jumps out from behind a tree.

Hello. I hear that you are in a spot of bother. I can help you across the river, you know.

But you're a sly devious fox, Are you sure you won't eat me?

Of course not. Besides I don't really like Gingerbread Men. Come on, hop on my back and I'll swim across with you on my back so you don't get wet and soggy.

The Gingerbread Man jumps onto his back and Fox starts swimming across the river.

Oh thanks Fox! You're a life saver.

My pleasure. But, you're really quite heavy. Do you think you could move up to my neck, it would be safer for us both..

Ok but please don't munch me..

He moves up to the Fox's neck.

No, I won't but even by my neck you're still too heavy. It would be better if you move up to my head.

Ok. But seriously don't think about taking a biteaaargh.

As soon as he moves up, fox turns around and gobbles him all up!

Mmm mmm mmm. That was delish. Any one else want to ride on my back?
